WORKS OF MRS. PFEIFFER.

SECOND EDITION, Revised, crown 8vo, 6s.

GLÂN ALARCH:
HIS SILENCE AND SONG.

BRITISH QUARTERLY.—"Mrs. Pfeiffer in this poem combines two qualities that rarely go together in the same degree. There is a powerful narrative, bringing into relief a state of society and of manners very remote, and a refined, subtle, reflective quality, by which the great lesson she would teach is interjected and made, as it were, to penetrate the whole poem from first to last. . . . We have read the poem with keen and continuous interest. It is vigorous in picture, profound in its lessons, and shows rare constructive powers."

CONTEMPORARY REVIEW.—"This is a fine poem. . . . There is true originality in the detailed execution on every page. . . . The book is a distinct and valuable contribution to modern poetry, and Mrs. Pfeiffer has a fair chance of one day herding with the immortals."

ACADEMY.—"The same qualities which have made Mrs. Pfeiffer's poetry of interest and worth appear in the present volume more largely and evenly developed than in any of the preceding writings. The story is less concerned with external movement than with spiritual motives and their relation to two human hearts. Mona, a beautiful and original conception, is 'a spirit and a woman too,' whose being is framed for self-transcending joy and pain. A refined and vivid feeling for nature appears throughout the poem. It makes a real addition to our possessions."

CARMARTHEN JOURNAL.—"There are few works in which may be found a finer analysis of character and thought, and perhaps none in which the contention of the finer and holier influences with the grosser powers that help to shape human destiny is more cunningly traced."

SECOND EDITION, Revised and Enlarged, crown 8vo, 6s.

GERARD'S MONUMENT,
AND OTHER POEMS.

TIMES.—"Gerard's Monument" is full of fancy and feeling. . . . To a delicate taste and refined feeling is added a high degree of literary skill and genuine imaginative power. It is an original and well-told story. We cannot read a page without perceiving that its accomplished authoress is never at a loss for graceful and apposite fancies. She brings together a group of persons who interest us, and weaves their lives into a dramatic story, the plot of which is as new as it is effective. . . . Mrs. Pfeiffer's verse pleases palates that scarcely care to quench their thirst with anything less than the nectar of the gods."

STANDARD.—"The author holds a commission from the Muses, and her songs are her vouchers."

DAILY TELEGRAPH.—"Gerard's Monument" has undoubtedly claims to high praise. Mrs. Pfeiffer is really a poetess. . . . The volume is full of beauty; one sure to be delightfully perused."

LIVERPOOL ALBION.—"It is long since we have read a volume of poems with such intense pleasure. 'Gerard's Monument' bears a closer resemblance to the greatest and most truly imaginative of Coleridge's poems than to the works of any more recent singers. . . . The golden and Valery are exquisite creations. . . . Let everyone who cares for musical and imaginative verse at once secure a copy of 'Gerard's Monument.'"

SECOND EDITION, crown 8vo, 6s.

POEMS,

Including the "Spectator" Sonnets, the Red Ladye, Ode to the Teuton Women, Lyrics, and Songs.

SPECTATOR.—"Some of Mrs. Pfeiffer's sonnets are, to our mind, among the finest in the language. . . . They show flights of imagination of which almost the greatest of English sonnet-writers might and possibly would have been proud."

SATURDAY REVIEW.—"Mrs. Pfeiffer has the true spirit of a singer."

SCOTSMAN.—"Scarcely a poem which is not full of beauties of thought and expression, and some are masterpieces of lyric poetry."

PALL MALL.—"Mrs. Pfeiffer's sonnets are marked by high imagination."

To appear early in January, Mrs. Pfeiffer's New Work,

QUARTERMAN'S GRACE,
AND OTHER POEMS,

Including "A Vision of Dawn," "Madonna Dünya," and shorter Poems, as also Renderings from Heine's shorter Poems.

"It is not only a useful manual for the student, but a picturesque and interesting volume for that poor general reader who, as a rule, is apt to become weary of dry lists (however scientifically perfect) of fossils and of strata. RICHARD BENTLEY & SON'S NEW PUBLICATIONS,

NOW READY AT ALL BOOKSELLERS' AND LIBRARIES.

DEAN HOOK: HIS LIFE and LETTERS. By his Son-in-Law, the Rev. W. R. W. STEPHENS, Author of "Memorials of the See of Chichester," and "Life of St. John Chrysostom." With Two Portraits. 2 vols. 8vo, 30s.

RECORDS of a GIRLHOOD. By FANNY KEMBLE. 3 vols. crown 8vo, 31s. 6d.

Of this work the World says:—"Here is a book which should exactly hit the popular taste; a book of gossip of all kinds—of social and personal recollections during some of the most interesting years of the present century; of striking and powerful portraits of men and women distinguished in art, letters, fashion, and politics; a book whose predominant atmosphere is theatrical. It is a most delightfully varied storehouse of experiences of all kinds, put before us in that light and pleasing way in which only a woman, and a woman who writes well, can put them."

"In truth the book is charming; it grows much upon the reader, and, being crammed full of amusing stories, it may be taken up at any time. It is altogether a book to be read and kept."—Vanity Fair.

BALZAC: HIS LIFE and LETTERS.

With a Memoir by his Sister, MADAME DE SURVILLE. 2 vols. 8vo, 26s.

"He began to say that one day he would make the world talk of him."

"He had become a seeker after secrets; an explorer of the human heart; delicate touches of criticism, subtle remarks and wise reflections come to the surface in the midst of his gaiety."

ADVENTUROUS LIVES. By

BERNARD H. BECKER. 2 vols. crown 8vo, 21s.

"Adventures, we know upon distinguished authority, are to the adventurous. It is seldom there falls to the lot of the adventurous so congenial and effective a biographer as Mr. Bernard H. Becker. In these two handsome volumes, happily and appropriately entitled 'Adventurous Lives,' we have a succession of biographical narratives. Some of Mr. Becker's heroes are famous enough; of others comparatively little is known; and it is the uniform excellence of our author's treatment that the patient and minute investigation which he has devoted to his task has not impaired the freshness and spirit with which it is performed. The late Professor Simpson, when his indomitable energy would not let him sleep at night, was in the habit of desiring that a book of battles might be given him to read. In Mr. Becker's work this distinguished man might have found even as much of dash and movement as his impetuous nature required."—World.

OUR OLD ACTORS. By Henry

BARTON BAKER. Two vols. demy 8vo, with Five fine Portraits, 28s.

"Mr. Baker's business is with the adventures and the art of our principal players; and he rarely, if ever, departs from his well-considered plan to discuss the literature of the theatre. His anecdotes have all an authentic look, and their genuineness is, for the most part, not to be doubted. The book is extremely rich in good stories, which are invariably well told." Pull Mail Gazette.

The TRAVELS of DR. and MADAME

HELPER. Translated by Mrs. GEORGE STURGE. 2 vols. 8vo, 21s.

"If readers of travels can find time for the perusal of books of travel which do not directly bear on contemporary events, they will be charmed with Mrs. Sturge's translation of the experiences of Dr. and Madame Helper in Syria, Mesopotamia, and Burmah. The story of their pilgrimage is told very pleasantly, and with great judgment. The sketches of men, women and manners are as good as those of the scenery, while students of natural history will find these two volumes a veritable treasure-house."—World.

OLD PARIS: its COURT and LITERARY SALONS. By CATHERINE CHARLOTTE, Lady JACKSON, Editor of "The Jackson Diaries" and "The Bath Archives." 2 vols. large crown 8vo, with Portraits of Bossuet, Fénelon, Molière, Corneille, Anne of Austria, Louis XIV., 24s.

"A lively, gossip subject, and a lively, gossip book, very easy and pleasant to read."—Vanity Fair.
